Crucify Him I The height, and depth of His love, without money and without price make men say, Not this man, but Barahbas! 8. The Cnn.nnoon Of CnaisT.--It is a very deep and beautiful truth that the Eternal Son had a human and progressive childhood. Happy the child who is suffered to ho what God would have him; a child while childhood lusts. Happy the parent who does not force artificial manners, precocious feelings, and premature religious experience and expression. Our age is one of stimulus and high pressure, effect is everything; results produced at once, something to show, something to tell. The result is, that heart and brain wear out before their time. Tis true that life is short, but let us not forget that the Son of God lived till He was thirty in an obscure village, engaged probably in the humble duties of His parent s calling, then He emerged a matured and perfect man. Tis a divine lesson. Our stimulating, artificial culture destroys depth, onr ambitious competition and fashionable frivolity leave no time for earnestness. Character In life wants root, and because it has no depth, too often it withers in the fierce rays of temptation The world wants what has passed away, a childhood and a youth spent in shade--a home. For the Advocate and Guardian. THE LITTLE KNIFE MERCHANT. Coutlnncd from page 107. from its very inaction, Idleness ultimately...
