Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Local Events and Incidents at Home It is quite interesting to contemplate the vast increase of Steam Boats on our waters within a few years, and to see their effect upon the transportation of the good people who reside in proximity to the different points at which the said Steamers touch in their different trips, throughout the day. We are now more particularly alluding to the Ferry Boats that ply between Charles ton, Mount Pleasant and Sullivan s Island, known generally as Hillard s Line of Steamers. At almost every hour in the day, may be seen one or other of these Boats ploughing the stream, whose placid bosom, not long since was only ruffled by the intermittent oar of some isolated Ferryman - the tugged oar, a striking contrast to the noise of the ceaseless paddles of those floating bridges, that now make a highway for hundreds of daily voyagers.
