Excerpt: .runs was on December 19th, 1849, when a fox was found at Minterne and killed at Bridehead. The distance from point to point was about 15 miles, and the ground traversed by the hounds not less than 25 miles, done in two hours and a fraction. In 1843 no less than 174 foxes were killed by Mr. Farquharson s hounds and 31 driven to earth. In the 20 years he hunted the county (1837-1857) 2,688 foxes were killed and 6,244 driven to earth. When hard pressed, foxes will sometimes climb ivy-covered trees, such as those in Sherborne Park. A lot more might be written about foxes and foxhunting, but it would be beyond the scope of this paper. Quaint old Topsel, in his History of the Wasp, 1608, writes thus: -- Raynard the fox, who is so full of his wiles and crafty shifting,...

Reviews

Good electronic book and valuable one. It is one of the most incredible publication we have read through. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
